Bespoke Strategy

PROJECT MANAGER:
Callum Edwards

the recap

You're building something with real brand depth, not a disposable street-food trend:

- A story-led food concept rooted in Ancient Irish culture (Neolithic cooking method / "portal" identity)
- A high-footfall, high-tourist location positioned between two key areas in Belfast
- A launch plan that starts with Addiction, then expands into a pipeline of concepts
- A clear ambition to move from local traction → multiple selling points → stability → mass market potential (including potential supermarket direction and brand collaborations, e.g., Guinness)

You've already invested properly in foundations:

- A hero film (high quality, narrative-driven)
- Teaser content live
- Phase 2 planned content (interview/inspiration piece)
- Social channels + "coming soon" site
- Flyers and initial launch assets

Your immediate question was essentially:

> "How do we turn this story + content into consistent awareness, demand, and measurable ROI?"

where we fit (and where PR fits)

You mentioned a possible Belfast PR agency for launch – that makes sense for:

- Local press relationships
- Belfast-specific news coverage
- Local outlet placements

Base Brands is different: we build the digital marketing infrastructure that makes growth predictable.

PR can create a spike.

We build the system that converts that spike into:

- followers + community
- data + remarketing audiences
- repeat sales + repeat visits
- demand for new locations before they open

We can also work alongside a PR partner (we often do) and make sure PR coverage is captured, repurposed, and converted.

timeline: our approach

Phase 1: Launch support + foundation (February > March)

Focus: make the hero film + launch moment work harder

- Campaign structure for launch awareness (Meta: IG/FB)
- Simple conversion setup (tracking, pixels, events)
- Content plan that extends beyond the “opening spike”
- Reporting cadence so you can see what’s working

Phase 2: Always-on content + community growth (March onward)

Focus: consistent output, consistent demand

- Monthly or bi-weekly filming days (“boots on ground”)
- Editing + content banking (reels, short docs, photos)
- Posting/scheduling (optional) + performance-led iteration
- Paid social that turns content into predictable reach + footfall

3

Phase 3: Expansion support (as locations / product lines grow)

Focus: repeatable growth playbook

- Launch kit for new selling points (e.g., St George’s Market and beyond)
- Brand system / guidelines for future “Addiction to ___” concepts
- CRM + email/SMS capture for retention
- Website evolution from “coming soon” to conversion + distribution

important: the evolving strategy

This document outlines the initial scope based on our discovery calls, previous discussions, and our recommendations in a phased rollout format.

We are deliberately providing this as a strategic starting point - not an exhaustive list of every future task. This is a living, adaptive marketing system, not a static campaign.

Some tasks will be triggered by performance insights. Others will emerge naturally as we uncover needs, gaps, or quick wins.

Please note:

- This is not a closed checklist - not every item can be predicted
- Some deliverables require bolt-ons or your input (graphics, landing pages, videos)
- We will proactively suggest next steps when opportunities appear

why phased rollout matters...

Reduces Waste
Avoids committing to bloated, untested ideas.

Data-Led Strategy
Audits shape actions and priorities.

Quick Wins First
E.g. structuring Meta campaigns, plugging tech and creative gaps etc.

Content Engine is Layered In
We build it over time with strategic depth. This is not a one size fits all approach.
